Preparing For A Safe And Happy Holiday Season

As the holiday season approaches, Summerlin comes alive with gatherings, visitors, decorations, shopping and special activities. It is a wonderful time to connect with family, friends and neighbors. A little extra awareness can help everyone enjoy the season, while caring for the homes and spaces that make our community.

Stay Alert – Residents should be mindful of packages and deliveries left on porches, particularly during the busy holiday season. If possible, arranging for prompt pickup or asking a neighbor to collect deliveries while away can be helpful. Also, it's worthwhile to remain aware of activity that seems unusual or out of place. If something raises concern, noting details and sharing them with Metro may be appropriate.

Garage Doors and Valuables – Metro notes that residents should consider closing and locking the garage door when unattended. An open garage can make it easier for vehicles, bicycles, golf clubs, tools and other belongings to be taken. Keep vehicles locked and valuables out of sight, whether parked in a garage, driveway or on the street. Those traveling may want to use timers for interior lights, check doors and windows and ask a trusted neighbor to keep an eye on the home.

Decorating with Care – For those decorating, checking that lights and extension cords are in good condition may help avoid concerns. Candles are best kept away from curtains and other flammable materials, and some residents may choose to turn off decorations before leaving home or going to bed. Keeping walkways and sidewalks clear of cords, boxes and other items can make it easier for visitors and neighbors to get around.

Thoughtful Driving – Holiday activities often bring more traffic and pedestrians to our streets. Drivers should slow down near crosswalks, roundabouts, intersections, parks and neighborhood entrances, while remaining mindful of children who may be excited or distracted. Being considerate when parking and giving pedestrians and cyclists additional room can help make the season more enjoyable for everyone.

Shared Spaces and Play – As children enjoy new bicycles, electric bikes, scooters and other gifts, parents should talk with them about using their equipment responsibly and at reasonable speeds. Pathways, parks and common areas are shared by people of all ages. Treating neighbors and community property with care helps keep these spaces welcoming, and conversations about graffiti, vandalism, unsafe riding or activities that could damage park amenities may be worthwhile.

Christmas Tree Recycling – After the holidays, residents may want to participate in a Christmas tree recycling program and use designated drop-off locations. As the holidays conclude, please reach out to the Summerlin Council for information about available locations and drop-off details.

2027 Coupon Books – In the coming weeks, residents will receive their 2027 monthly assessment coupon book for their master association. If yours has not arrived by the end of December, please contact your association using the phone number listed on the left side of this page.

To everyone that contributes their time to volunteer organizations within the community, thank you for caring, sharing and helping. Your thoughtfulness and participation continue to make Summerlin a special place to call home.

Wishing you and your family a safe, happy holiday season and a wonderful New Year!

Water Conservation SNWA

Winter Watering Restrictions in Effect Nov. 1

It's that time of year in Southern Nevada when cooler temperatures have us reaching for our sweaters. The arrival of "sweater weather" means it's time to change our landscape irrigation clocks to follow the community's winter watering schedule.

In effect from Nov. 1 through Feb. 28, the winter watering schedule limits sprinkler irrigation to one assigned day per week; sprinkler watering is prohibited on Sunday. Find your assigned watering day at snwa.com.

Plants and trees need much less water than grass, so you can save water and lower your monthly bill by running your drip irrigation system on a recommended schedule of once every seven to 14 days. While this may not seem like much, it's still enough to keep your plants and trees healthy during the coldest months of the year. And it can help you avoid over-irrigating your desert-adapted, water-efficient landscapes.

Here are more tips to help keep your landscape vibrant this winter while helping the community save water:

- Water grass with spray irrigation during the mid-morning hours to avoid freezing and prevent ice from forming on lawns and sidewalks.
- Water your lawn for a maximum of 12 minutes on your watering day in three 4-minute cycles, with an hour between each cycle.
- Change the time on your irrigation clock to coincide with the end of Daylight-Saving Time on Sunday, Nov. 1.

The amount of water we apply to our landscapes is critically important because it is used once and cannot be reclaimed; on the other hand, water we use indoors is reclaimed, highly treated, and returned to Lake Mead for reuse. Save water where it matters most—outdoors.

For more information about the community's seasonal watering restrictions, and for money-saving tips to keep your landscape healthy and lush all year long, visit snwa.com.
